DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This rowhouse is located seventh from the corner and consists of three and one-half stories with walls made of stone with brick used at the rear of the building. There is a vestibule and inner door with a transom which leads from the stoop. There are three bay windows and all windows of the house have lintels and sills made of stone. A course of running bond brick divides the first and second stories. There are small dentils beneath the brick course. The second and third stories' main windows are recessed and set into an intricate brick framework, alternating patterns of running bond and parquet design. The top one-half story has a triangular shaped gable framing a group of three windows of which the center window is full arched with an intricate brick lintel.

Though of brownstone instead of granite, this house is similar to 1210 N. Calvert Street except for minor details; the basement entrance is a single door and slightly recessed into the pavement, the square windows each have a pair of 8 paned casements, the turret window is six-over-six and the roof is of slate.
